Was King Arthur only a Legend?

 No, King Arthur was not only a legend. In the ninth century, a historian called Nennius wrote a book called Historia Britonum. It was a history of Britain, about the life of the Celtic leader,<sup>1</sup> Arthur, and his knights.<sup>2</sup>

Nennius wrote that Arthur was a great Celtic military leader of the 5th and 6th century. He fought against the Saxons from the year 513 to 537. He and his men won many battles against the Saxons.

His people loved and remembered him for centuries after. There are lots of old ballads, songs, poems and stories about Arthur and his knights.

In 1470, Sir Thomas Malory wrote about King Arthur and his castle, Camelot. His writings are a complete and accurate record<sup>3</sup> of the King's life and times.

Arthur's army confronting the Saxons
from Jean Wauquelin's Chronicle (15th century).

1. leader : commander, ruler.
2. knights : ['naitz]
3. record : a writing about events and happenings.

Today there are many books and films in different languages on this exciting subject. King Arthur is so famous that he is part of the Breton literary cycle.

Before Arthur's Time

The first inhabitants of Britain were probably the Celts. They came from Germany in the third century BC.

The Roman general, Julius Caesar, invaded Britain in the year 54 BC. He had 25,000 soldiers and 2,000 horses. But he did not stay in Britain. He went to fight the Gauls in France.

In 43 AD, the Roman Emperor Claudius invaded Britain. This time the Romans stayed. Britain became a Roman province called Britannia.

The Romans built roads, walls and towns. There are many Roman remains<sup>1</sup> in Britain. Hadrian's Wall is a good example. It was built by the Roman Emperor Hadrian in 122 AD. He built it in the north of Britain to keep out the Scots. It is about 120 kilometres long. It took six years to build.

During the fifth and sixth century, the Angles and the Saxons invaded Britain. The legendary King Arthur fought against these invaders and others.

These are two sides of a Roman coin. It was made to celebrate Claudius's victory in Britain. One side shows Emperor Claudius and the other shows him riding his horse. Notice the writing 'De Britannia' on the coin.
